FAQ

How do I get started with creating a publication?

You can convert the PDF of your publication with our online software or you can install our Indesign plugin to convert your Indesign file directly.

Can I do some tests without using credits?

Yes, you can create as many demo publications as you need. As long as they are not published or exported, they do not use any credits.

Is the hosting included? For how long?

Yes, hosting is included for as long as you have an active subscription and whatever your level of subscription.

You can also export the files of your creations and host them onto your own web server.

Can I make changes to my publications?

Yes, you can make as many updates as you need.

Update fees occur only if you host the files outside the Webpublication platform and export the files more than once.

Is there any tracking?

Yes, the publications can be tracked with Google Analytics.

What is the difference between animated and non-animated publications?

Animated publications can support the integration of animations in the pages like sliding headers, counting up key numbers, fading image, animated graphs, etc.

How can I create animations?

Either with the Indesign animation features or with any other HTML5 animation tool like Adobe Animate.

Do I need to continue my subscription to keep my publications live?

Yes, you need to have a paid subscription to keep your publications live on our servers. But you don't need to maintain the same level of subscription every year. You can increase or decrease the number of credits of your subscription when you renew.

What if I don't use all my credits by the anniversary date of my annual subscription?

If you pay the annual fee of a subscription, whatever the number of credits of this subscription, your account remains active and the unused credits roll over.
